Subject. Mismanagement of the affairs of the Chennigarayaswami (Gopalaswami) temple at Banahalli, Chintamani Taluk.

LAST REFERENCE:—

Docket ~~Letter~~ No. 32 dated 1st September 1903 from the Superintt of Inam Settlements

In october 1902, some of the residents of Yedalur village of the Devanahalli Taluk, presented a petn to H.H. the Maharaja, representing that the Sri Channarayaswami (also known as Gopalaswami) temple at Banahalli, was in a ruinous condition & that the inam lands endowed to it were being enjoyed by the Archakas without rendering any service in the temple. The petn having been transferred to this Deptt for disposal with the Private Secy's no. 607/304 dated 28th Octr 1902, a report was called for from the Dy Commr of Kolar.

From the records received with the Dy Commr's letter dated 27th March '03 it is observed that the institution is endowed with the marginal noted inam lands. The temple is stated to be nothing more than a somewhat large sized mantap in a ruinous condition. The idols (Bhoodevi) are defaced & no Puja is performed for the last many years. The Archak enjoys the inam without rendering any service. Mr. K. R. Sreenivasiengar inspected the temple & reports that at least 500 Rs are required to repair the temple & renew the idols & that as it is an unimportant institution with a few devotees interested in it, it is not necessary for Govt. to spend any amount for its restoration. He suggests that a certain time - say about 3 years should be given to the Archak & the devotees to repair the temple & renew the idols & revive Puja therein & that during the period, the assessment on the land may be recovered & credited to the temple & if no steps are taken by those interested, then the lands should be resumed. The D.C. fixes the time for 2 years for the purpose.

1066 dated 7th/8th '03
688 dated 27th March '03

The usual practice in such circumstances is to resume the Inam lands and restore them again when the temple is thoroughly repaired and arrangements made for rendering the puja services regularly.

The Inam lands may accordingly be ~~resumed~~ attached at once (without giving them any time, as recommended by the Dy. Comrs., because it is not usual to give them such a long time or long full assistance and the management undertaken by the Executive on behalf of the Religious Department, ~~until~~ ~~the direct management~~ ~~is restored~~, until the temple is restored

KS 21/9/03

Subd to the Dewan

The mans may be attached and the lands placed under Govt management until the temple is restored By this means the lands will not be altogether lost to the temple (which would be the case if the lands were altogether resumed), and the income, however small, would be credited to the Muzrai surplus funds.

No. 106
Dated 16th/20 January, 1903.

Sir,

With reference to your memo Nos. 564 and 726 dated 3rd and 29th November 1902 respectively forwarding for report petition addressed to H. H. the Maharaja by Chunnarayappa and others of yedahu, Devanahalli taluk, re. the mismanagement of the affairs of Chunnarayaswamy temple at Banahalli, Kyvara hobli, Chintamani Taluk Taluk. I have the honor to forward herewith Chintamani Amildar's report Dr. 35 dated 19th. ultimo which gives full particulars on the several points referred to in the petition.

2. I inspected the temple in question on the 12th. Instant. It is nothing more than a some what large sized mantapam and is at present in a ruined condition The idols (Bhudevi) are defaced and no puja is being done in the temple for the past many years. The temple does not enjoy any ready money Inam. It is, however endowed with inam lands assessed at Rs 4 as shown in the margin*. These lands are being enjoyed by the Archick, who does not however do any puja as above reported

3. To bring the temple into a proper condition, it is necessary to renew the idols and repair the temple at a cost of about 500 Rs. But seeing that the temple is a very small and unimportant one situated in an insignificant village and that there there are not many devotees interested in it. I think it is not necessary for the Government to spend any amount for its restoration. I am of opinion that the temple Archik and the devotees interested in the temple should themselves repair the temple, renew the idols and do Samprokshana to it. A certain time - say 3 years may be allowed for this purpose. During this period the full assessment on the Inam lands may be recovered and credited to the temple. If no steps are taken by the archik or devotees for the repair of the temple during this period the lands may then be resumed to Government and written off the Inam head.

I have the honor to be
Sir,
your most obedient servant

No. 1067-75—MUZ. F. 47-1902, DATED BANGALORE, 6TH NOVEMBER 1903.

ORDER THEREON.—The temple of Sri Channarayaswami (also known as Gopalaswami) at Banahalli in the Chintamani Taluk is endowed with the marginally noted Inam lands for its support. The temple is reported to be in a ruinous condition, the idols therein defaced and no puja performed for the past many years. The Archak, however, is stated to be enjoying the Inam without rendering any service whatever. The Deputy Commissioner, Mr. Carr, therefore proposes that the Archak and the devotees interested in the up-keep of the institution may be allowed two years' time to repair temple and revive puja therein, and that if no steps are taken by them in this direction, the lands may then be resumed to Government. With reference to this suggestion the Government observe that, as the Inam lands had been already in the enjoyment of the Archak, who never did any service for the past many years, he is not entitled to any kind of concession. The lands should therefore be immediately attached and placed under the direct management of Government in the Muzrai Department, until the temple is thoroughly restored and puja services revived. The income from the Inam lands should be credited to the funds of the institution. By this means the lands will not be altogether lost to the temple, which would be the case if the lands were altogether resumed.
